University of Louisville Law School. It was during this time that he made a serious move into training. He began to work with a trainer named Ronnie Warren at Churchill Downs who had a Derby contender called Traffic Mark in his stable. Warren schooled Bucky and the filly at the same time. Traffic Mark didn't win the Kentucky Derby in 1969 (she finished fourth), but Bucky had had a taste of horseracing life at the top and he was hooked.

With money which his father-in-law gave him as a graduation present, Bucky bought Doc Bicknell, his first horse. On the day he was sworn into the Kentucky Bar Association, Bucky got his license as a trainer, saddled Doc in his first race and, this is the truth, won! "Doc Bicknell paid $64.20 at Turfway Park. It seemed so easy," Bucky says. "I didn't win again for nine months."

Bucky began to practice law as an assistant prosecutor and later as a public defender, at the same time building up his stable of thoroughbreds. He has always preferred to own the horses he trains or own a piece of them. The law began to demand more and more of his energy. Finally he had to make a choice. Of course he chose horses over murderers and the majesty of the law; his grandmother had preordained that.

In one of those queer little quirks of fate, Bucky met some Jefferson Parish horseplayers at the Kentucky Derby one year, and they hired him to claim some horses. Eventually he moved down to Kenner to train them. Like the Menard family, he was attracted by the convenience and stability of year-round racing offered between Jefferson Downs and the Fair Grounds in New Orleans. After all, he and Pat had Kelly (now 17) and Tresha (now 15) to raise along with a dozen or more horses.

The Lannings have developed a lifestyle that has to be unique among horsemen. Pat is a social worker with Jefferson Parish Public Schools and is on staff at River Oaks Hospital. Bucky trains his horses and also trains girls. He coaches the All-Stars Girls Biddy Basketball Team at the Galatas Gym in Kenner. His teams have placed 5th in the 1986 National Biddy Tournament, third in 1987, and are looking for the winners circle in the 1988 competition which will be held in Kenner. This horse trainer, coach, lawyer, also has another role. He's Kenner city councilman for District 3. "I have the best of all possible worlds," he says. "I'm fulfilling a need to be in public service and to contribute to the lives of young people, and I'm following through on a life time dream to train thoroughbreds." Does it get any better than this?

A Riverboat comes home where it belongs in Rivertown

*New Orleans Paddlewheel's River Rose
now calls Kenner its home port*

The River Rose of Rivertown carries up to 150 passengers.

Some plans fall together so easily and seem so natural that you wonder if Fate was one of the parties involved. On a quiet Sunday afternoon standing atop the levee looking across the batture at the churning Mississippi, time seems to stop for a moment as the paddlewheeler, River Rose, slowly works her way up to the long dock at LaSalle's Landing in Kenner. She looks like she's always been part of this picturesque scene. However, the River Rose saga, like so many other success stories in Kenner's quest to promote tourism in Louisiana's fifth largest city, has its share of plot twists. And, what at first glance seems so easy and natural, is really the result of a lot of behind the scenes working and dreaming on the part of all the characters involved.

The River Rose of Rivertown is a trim little cupcake of a paddlewheeler-excursion boat. She was built at a yard in Galveston, Texas, in 1983. She's 80 feet on the waterline, 38 feet at the widest part of her beam, and can happily accommodate up to 150 people on river expeditions up and down the muddy Mississippi. She used to work on the Red River in Shreveport, Louisiana, but that waterway suffers some seasonal lows in its depth that made it impossible for the River Rose to navigate safely. Her owners, New Orleans Paddlewheel Co., which also owns the Creole Queen, Cajun Queen, and the Vermillion Queen, wanted to find the Rose a new home.

The City of Kenner, led by its dynamic and irrepressible mayor, Aaron Broussard, has been campaigning for some years now to develop attractions and the business structure and support systems that would encourage tourists, business travelers, and locals alike to take advantage of the history, convenience and fun of life in Kenner. One of the jewels in the crown of the city's plan is Rivertown, USA, an historic district of shops and museums which, after its first tentative steps as an attraction, is now generating a great deal of excitement. But, while there was a river in Rivertown, and a landing, no boats called Rivertown home port.

Lillian Reed is the Director of Tourism for the City of Kenner. She is a tireless and enthusiastic promoter who takes personal pride in every small sign of successful growth reported by the merchants and museums in Rivertown. She explains that although no boats were based in Rivertown, from the beginning Mayor Broussard had a concept in his head that included much activity on the River. "He just believed that with the right combination of things, especially good promotion, it would be clear that Rivertown was a perfect place for an excursion boat." Then something unexpected happened. . .

As part of Kenner's 1987 promotional strategy for Rivertown, a special cruise event was planned for Christmas Eve, 1987. Mrs. Reed wasn't quite sure how the public would respond, but the idea had a lot of appeal. Five boats from New Orleans, the Cajun Queen, Creole Queen, the Natchez, Jean Lafitte, and the Voyageur were chartered to carry passengers to a unique Christmas ceremony that takes place upriver from Kenner. Families that live in communities by the river traditionally build huge bonfires all along the levees. Some have elaborate themes, some are just big! At a pre-arranged time on Christmas Eve, the bonfires are ignited. Local lore has it that they burn so brightly that Papa Noel passing over high in the sky can find his way to the homes of all good children. The sight from the River Road is so spectacular that thousands of families drive in to witness the event. Those involved in the Bonfires on the Levee Cruise planning reasoned that the sight from the river on a crisp winter evening would be unforgettable.

Before the Christmas Bonfires on the Levee Cruises could be advertised, word of mouth had spread the news throughout the metropolitan area. The Bonfire Cruises were sold out in a matter of days. Over 1,800 people booked reservations and Mrs. Reed says there was a waiting list. "We probably could have filled one or two more boats," she said. "We were really surprised and pleased at the response. We'll definitely be offering these cruises again next Christmas."

The fortunate Christmas revelers who were able to get tickets boarded the boats in a two-hour period and were in position upriver to see the fires start with a roar at seven. It was from all reports a memorable and joyous evening.

The success of this event convinced Warren Reuther, president of New Orleans Paddlewheel Co., that the right boat could enjoy tremendous popularity from a base of operations in Rivertown. He and Mayor Broussard had been talking informally for some time, but until the Christmas cruises, Reuther had had his doubts about Kenner. Would tourists and local residents continue to show such an affinity for excursions on the river? After Christmas, Reuther was willing to gamble that the answer was a loud, Yes! He agreed to move the River Rose to the brand new dock and boarding ramp completed by the City of Kenner at LaSalle's Landing.

After months of preparation and refitting at a New Orleans boatyard, the River Rose had its inaugural cruise from Rivertown in mid-April, 1988. She leaves on evening Jazz Dinner Cruises every Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at 7:00. There's a Moonlight Cruise Saturday nights at 10:00, and a Sunday Brunch Cruise at 1 p.m. The boat is available for charter, Monday through Thursday, and numerous civic groups and clubs based in Kenner and other nearby communities book trips often.

When her whistle blows to signal the beginning or end of another cruise, close your eyes for a minute and let your imagination roam back through the years to a time when massive riverboats plied the wide waters of one of the world's great rivers. They carried cotton, flour, lumber, furs, textiles, fancy goods and passengers and helped define an era in American history that continues to engage the imagination of tourists from around the world. The River Rose is a modern descendant of those vessels, and now, after some creative scheming, some hard work by a lot of interested people, and maybe a little intervention by Fate, she's home at last where she's the centerpiece of the Mississippi panorama at Rivertown USA. Don't miss a chance to see her and let her take you cruising through the past.

Watch out for the Wildlife

Kenner is a Natural

How carefully are you using your powers of observation when you drive through Kenner? Are you really seeing all there is to see? There's a lot more than suburban activity going on here if you know where to look...

The afternoon is warm, and the breeze is gentle as it moves in from Lake Pontchartrain. Right over there, a few ducks swim slowly in the pond, others nest quietly on their eggs nearby. A brilliant white Great Egret stands stock still in the water, and then wades calmly in pursuit of a dinner of fish or frog. Above it all, squirrels scamper in the trees and a yellow-rumped warbler practices his best tunes. Today in this little ecological Eden, there are visitors. A mallard family has flown in from Canada in search of a warmer place to spend the winter.

Although this typical Louisiana swamp setting sounds like it's far from the hustle of a modern city, in fact it's a scene from Kenner's Veterans Memorial Park. Outside the park, cars and trucks are whizzing by on Kenner's busiest street, Williams Boulevard. Overhead, jets soar in and out from New Orleans International Airport. Next door is the Kenner City Hall, hub of all city business.

Outside the park, excitement and modern speed; inside, timelessness and calm balance. It is just this mad juxtaposition of the urban with the natural that gives Kenner its distinctive allure.

Kenner was once called Le Flotant, or Floating Land by the Creoles because it is surrounded by so much water and like all of south Louisiana it is distinguished by its marshy, swampy terrain. Early French settlers had another name for the area

Children enjoy the Wildlife and Fisheries Museum because it's a "hands-on" kind of place.

— "Cannes Brulees" (Burnt Canes). Green and golden reed-like plants covered the marshy ground as far as the eye could see. Wild game of all sorts took refuge in this cover. Indians who hunted the area would set fires in the reeds to force the animals from their hiding places.

Stretching from Lake Pontchartrain on the north, to the Mississippi River to the south, including south Louisiana wetlands in the west, Kenner offers nature lovers a varied mix of Louisiana habitat and wildlife.

Coming into Kenner from the west, Interstate 10 passes over marshland, where the careful observer will see alligators sunning themselves, turtles swimming in family groups, egrets, herons, hawks, sea gulls, ducks of all kinds, and an occasional otter. In the fall, the American Bald Eagle comes to the swamp on its annual migration and returns in the spring.

From LaPlace to New Orleans International Airport, you actually cross a fresh-water marsh which is full of wire grass, bull tongue, water lilies, water hyacinth, and duck weed.

That green on top of the water may look like scum, but it is an extremely important miniature plant, duck weed, with its root system underwater. And yes, the wild ducks just love it for supper!

After the Bonnet Carre Spillway, you will find Bayou LaBranch which goes under Interstate 10. It is a lovely, winding, scenic waterway perfect for canoeing. It eventually goes into a cypress-tupelo swamp and comes out on Airline Highway. This is a popular spot for wood ducks who love to nestle in the holes in the cypress trees. You might even launch your canoe or small flat boat at Airline Highway. It is 5.6 miles from the airport to where Bayou LaBranch comes into Airline Highway.

In the wintertime visitors to Kenner often ask about the strange square haystacks that they see in the marsh. These man-made structures are duckblinds, where hunters with their dogs can hide. They wait patiently for their prey in flat-bottomed wooden pirogues.

Just as the Interstate crosses into Kenner from the west, there is a "nice, little, mixed oak woods," according to David E. John, a biologist with the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Department. There you will find hackberry trees, elm, maple, willow, cypress, and several varieties of oak. Deer have been sighted there too, but David says that this habitat is best for bird watching, with many colorful species of woodpeckers and warblers. You can drive there by following Veterans Highway to its conclusion.

What if you are not sure what you saw driving in? What if you didn't come by car? What if you just want to learn about Louisiana, its land and its wildlife? A must for any nature lover, especially one with children, is the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Museum, housed in the historic Felix Block Mercantile Building, located on the corner of Williams Boulevard and Jefferson Highway (303 Williams Blvd.). This newly renovated building is on the National Register of Historic Places. Admission is only $1.00 for adults, 75 cents for senior citizens, and 50 cents for children.

Inside you will find over 700 preserved specimens of birds, reptiles and other samples of Louisiana wildlife. Let Sharon Alonzo, a naturalist with the Louisiana Nature and Science Center, tell you about that huge bone everyone asks about: it is a whale vertebrae! And yes, Sharon says, "we do have whales in the Gulf of Mexico."

A big plus is that this is a hands-on museum with "Please Touch" signs everywhere. Pick up "Ms. Smith," the Gulf Coast Box Turtle, so named because of her species being labeled "nondescript" in a book on turtles. "Jack" is the smaller turtle. "We're not saying who he is named after," says Sharon. "We know too many Jacks!" Pet the nutria (stuffed, that is).

Nutria, by the way, are not native to Louisiana. Twenty of these large brown rodents were brought into this country from Argentina in 1938, by E.A. McIlhenny, a naturalist and owner of Avery Island in southwestern Louisiana whose family invented and markets Tabasco Sauce. McIlhenny inadvertently set off a population explosion when the nutria took to the marshes. After escapes and intentional releases nutria multiplied unchecked until their numbers reached a high of some 20 million in the mid-to-late '50s.

The Wildlife and Fisheries Museum has a fine exhibit of marine life in a 15,000 gallon aquarium. Native fish in residence here include sheepshead, catfish, spadefish, and two nurse sharks.

The Museum is managed by the staff of the Louisiana Nature Center and has programs for children of all ages. Inquire about classes such as the ones in the "Growing Up With Nature in Kenner" series. Some subjects covered include frogs and amphibians, why soil is important to our survival on this planet, and how vital our wetlands are to us.

Across from the museum is LaSalle's Landing, which affords a magnificent view of the Mississippi River from the levee, and a park area. Here is where the explorer LaSalle stopped on his way down the Mississippi to claim the land for France. Just relax here and watch the marine activity on the mighty Mississippi or observe the wildlife that roams the batture. If you're ambitious, walk over the levee down to the batture ponds and look for tracks and shore birds such as egrets. Because the batture is flooded during high water season on the Mississippi, the natural balance of the batture is constantly changing. That means there's always something interesting to see.

A short 15 or 20-minute drive north to the other end of Williams Boulevard leads you to a mini-park and boat launch at Lake Pontchartrain, the largest salt water lake in North America. Children can climb to the top of an observation deck, beneath which one might see fishermen dropping their lines, crabbers hoisting their nets and shrimpers trawling for shrimp in early summer.

Enjoy a picnic lunch as you watch the sailboats and water skiers dotting the Lake. Walk, jog, bike or just stroll along the entire 10-mile Lake Pontchartrain shoreline of Jefferson Parish, which is known as Linear Park. It is a ribbon of blacktop roadway that winds between the Lake and the protection levee. Look for delicious blackberries growing along the path in early spring and summer.

After you've spent the day learning about all the wildlife and plants that make Kenner, and south Louisiana a unique habitat, you'll understand why so many have chosen to make their homes here. Surely if you love nature and the outdoors, Kenner is a great place to live in or visit.

Resort Planned for Laketown on Kenner's North Side

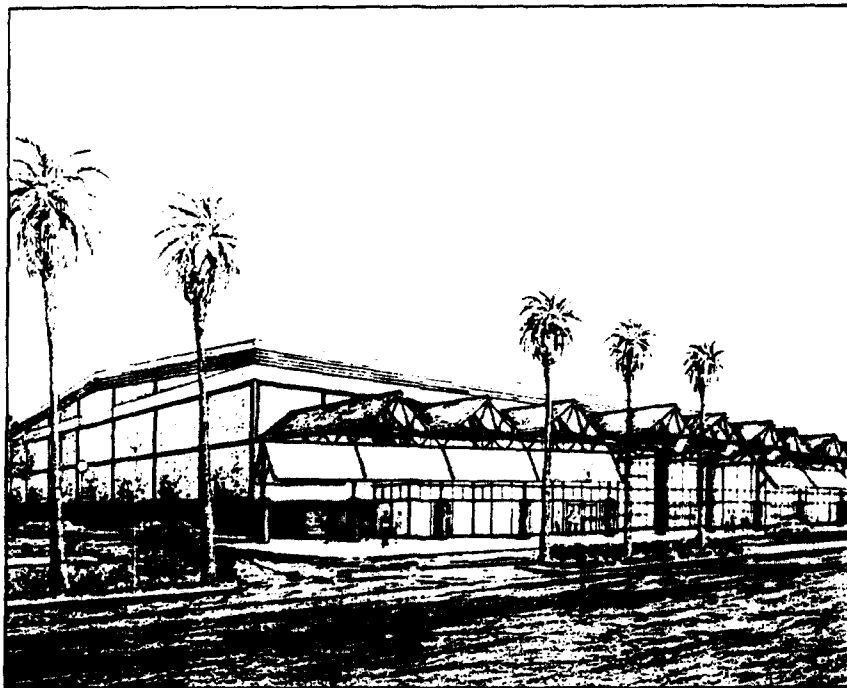

Will city visionaries be able to put the development together?

Next time you visit Kenner, chances are you'll be surprised by the changes and additions you see. Kenner is a city "on the move" as it proclaims in its promotional slogan, and no place is this more apparent than on the lake side of the city. A ground breaking ceremony was held in late 1987, to begin construction of the Pontchartrain Center, Kenner's new civic and convention facility, slated for completion in 1990. This new structure will be the centerpiece of a grand waterfront development plan.

Now that Mayor Aaron Broussard and his staff have momentum on their side in the development of Rivertown on the river side of the city, they've turned their attention to the other prime location in Kenner — acres and acres of undeveloped land along the shores of Lake Pontchartrain. They call their development vision, Laketown.

"I can see Laketown becoming the premier small resort family and convention center in the South," says Mayor Broussard. "It'll have an expanded boat dock and marina, a waterpark, international hotel, commercial villages, entertainment . . . It'll be fantastic, unique, nothing else like it on the lake!"

Everyone in Kenner says Mayor Broussard thinks big, and is Kenner's most ardent booster, but the faint of heart falter at the grand scheme that Broussard describes. But, this is the same man who took Rivertown from a few delapidated buildings by the railroad tracks and wheedled, talked, dealt and promised it into a thriving and growing historic attraction. The smart money says that he'll be able to do the same thing at Laketown.

"All around the country, there's been a resurgence of interest in waterfront property," he explains. "Many cities first formed along their waterways, but as they grew and transportation patterns changed, the front door became the back door and waterfront property declined. But now there's a rekindled interest in the magic of waterfront development."

The mayor believes that a world class developer, and by the way he's talking to several, with cooperation from the city of Kenner could pull Laketown together.

The basic characteristic that distinguishes the visionary thinker is the ability to look at a set of facts or some empty acres along a lake and construct castles in the air. A politician who is also a visionary has to have other characteristics as well — dogged determination and the energy to bring people together to talk and plan, talk and plan, talk and plan some more, until they too see the possibilities of Laketown.

The mayor's just begun.

Watch for other coming attractions in Kenner:

New Orleans Saints Football Team - Saints Hall of Fame in Rivertown. Projected completion - summer 1988.

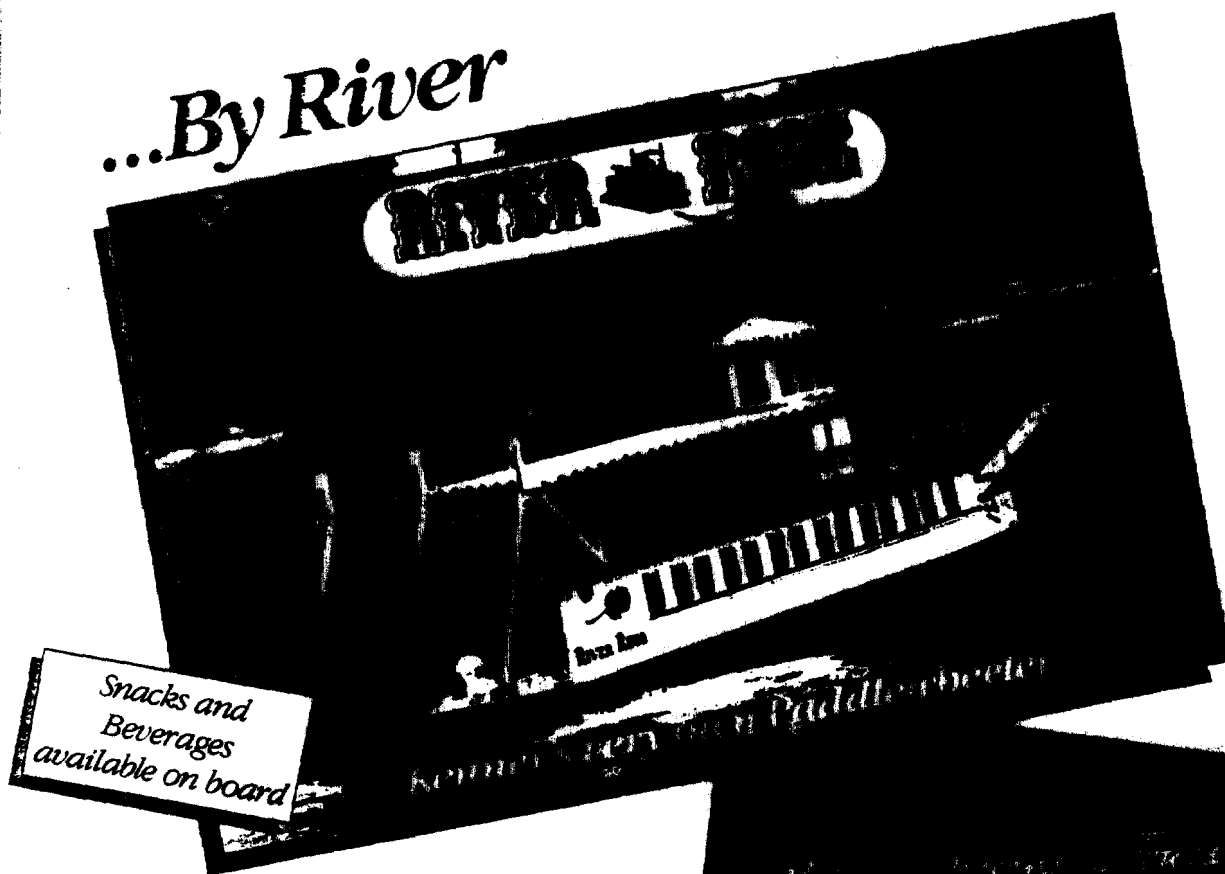

Science Center and Stars on the River Planetarium managed by the Louisiana Nature Center - in Rivertown. Projected completion - fall 1988.

Pontchartrain Observatory managed by the Pontchartrain Astronomical Society - in Rivertown. Projected completion - fall 1988.

Kenner Repertory Theater in Rivertown. Projected opening - fall 1988.

EXHIBIT H
KENNER BUSINESSES

KENNER

Guest Book

Kenner is often called the "Affordable New Orleans" because of the many moderately priced hotel accommodations, restaurants, shopping attractions as well as exciting special attractions such as the Treasure Chest Casino, historic Rivertown, U.S.A. and the Pontchartrain Center.

From its origin as an Indian village to becoming Louisiana's fifth largest city with a population of nearly 80,000, Kenner has had its own unique history.

Today, Kenner is a retail shopping destination point for southeast Louisiana, featuring "The Esplanade Mall," with Macy's, Dillard's, Mervyn's and 150 other specialty retail stores in one of the most beautiful shopping malls in the South. Other area attractions include the "Pavilion" Shopping Center, Sam's, Home Depot and much more. Due to the location of the New Orleans

International Airport in Kenner, many of our foreign tourists shop in Kenner where they can enjoy "Duty Free Pricing" by not having to pay sales tax on any purchase.

Entertainment is now from the lake to the river, with the Treasure Chest Casino on Lake Pontchartrain and the Rivertown Repertory Theatre in Rivertown near the Mississippi River. In between, there are great museums and quaint shops in Rivertown, U.S.A., a variety of ongoing attractions at the Pontchartrain Center, shopping at our malls and numerous community events all year long.

Kenner follows the Louisiana tradition for great food. Its ethnic heritage makes our selection of Italian, French, Hispanic, Cajun and Oriental eateries some of the best in Louisiana.

While you are here, we welcome you and invite you to make Kenner your "home away from home." Enjoy all that we have to offer and come back to visit us again.

TREASURE CHEST

The approach to the Treasure Chest Casino at the end of Williams Boulevard is beautiful. A landscaped entrance leads to the glistening white riverboat on the banks of beautiful Lake Pontchartrain. Parking is a breeze with a choice of Free Valet Parking or Free Self-Parking just a short shuttle-van ride away from the action.

As you enter, smiling, helpful staff welcome you to three decks of glitter and glamour, games and fantasy. Each level reflects an enchanting Caribbean theme. The Skylight Room on the third deck is completely non-smoking and offers its own snack bar. The views of Lake Pontchartrain from all decks are spectacular!

Arranged throughout the three levels are 854 slot machines and 43 gaming tables, including blackjack, craps, stud poker, roulette and video poker. The riverboat offers over 25,000 square feet of excitement, fun and opportunity.

To complement the casino games, the Treasure Chest Casino also offers an Entertainment Complex, complete with the Caribbean Showroom Lounge, Bobby G's Restaurant and the Treasure Island Buffet.

Throughout each month, the Caribbean Showroom Lounge offers a variety of big-name musical and comedic entertainment.

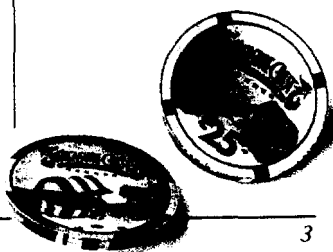

Bobby G's is a fine dining experience, (reservations suggested) featuring a creative mix of fresh seafood specialties and certified Angus steaks. The Treasure Island Buffet offers a breathtaking view of Lake Pontchartrain as well as a vast selection of delicious international and Louisiana specialties.

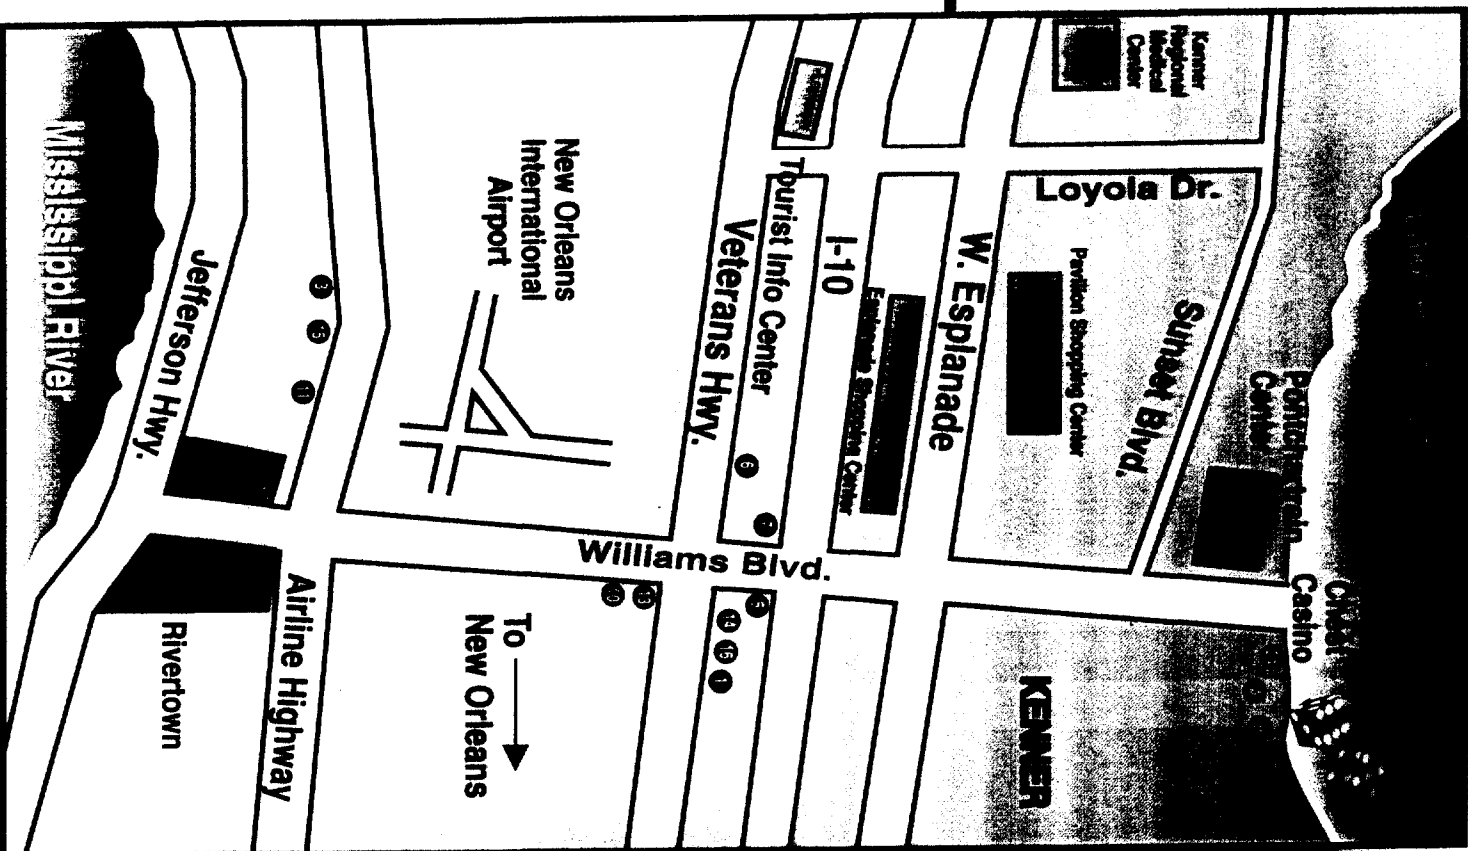

When visiting, don't forget to take advantage of the winning card with membership in the Treasure Chest Player's Club! As a member, you'll receive the convenience of benefits, including extra cash and bonus points, which all add up to more cash or prizes. Becoming a member is as simple as filling out an application when you first arrive! Membership is free.

The Treasure Chest Casino in Kenner offers quality entertainment that is easy to get to and a pleasure to visit. The riverboat is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, with no admission or parking charges! Just take Williams Boulevard in Kenner to Lake Pontchartrain. Call 504/443-8000 for more information.

Over 200 years ago, the French explorer Robert Cavalier de LaSalle and his band of adventurers came by way of the Mississippi River to a spot they would designate on their map as "Cannes Brulee" (Burnt Canes), having found Native Americans cutting and burning river cane to drive out wild game. Today, this historic location, where Williams Boulevard meets the Mississippi River, is known as "Rivertown, U.S.A.," and is the oldest section of Kenner.

Rivertown is a turn-of-the-century village, featuring various specialty shops, restaurants and some of Louisiana's finest museums, including:

- The Saints Hall of Fame Museum
- The Daily Living Science Center, Planetarium, Observatory and Space Station
- The Louisiana Wildlife & Fisheries Museum and Native American Center of the Gulf South

- The Louisiana Toy Train Museum & Remote Control Raceway
- The Treasure Chest Mardi Gras Museum of Jefferson Parish.

In addition, live entertainment, featuring puppets, mimes, storytellers, magicians and musicians, is featured at the Children's Castle, while the award-winning Rivertown Repertory Theatre offers a regular season of the best in drama and musicals.

Rivertown museums are open Tuesday through Saturday, from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., and Sunday, from 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. Rivertown is located two miles from I-10 on Williams Boulevard at the Mississippi River.
